

Listed below are six of the largest holdings in the fund, all of which have excellent upside potential.

BMO Women in Leadership Fund

Amazon.com Inc. (3.5%)
Consumer Discretionary

Amazon.com, Inc. offers a range of products and services through its Websites, which includes merchandise and content that it purchases for resale from vendors and those offered by third-party sellers. The Company has three segments: North America, International and Amazon Web Services.

Brookfield Asset Management Inc. (4.5%)
Financials

A global alternative asset manager it boasts a highly diversified asset base which is hard to replicate and benefits from high, recurring revenues. It has been successful in its transformation to a traditional asset manager, and has a history as a strong dividend grower. €

Royal Bank of Canada (5.8%)
Financials

Its size and focus on driving efficiencies and cost management should allow for positive operating leverage in a slowing consumer loan growth environment. Capital markets are a large contributor to earnings and continues to expand this business. Its dividend income continues to be attractive.

VISA Inc. (4.3%)
Financials

VISA operates the world's largest electronic payments network and manages a leading global payment brand. It facilitates global commerce providing product platforms. It has a distinguished track record of growing earnings steadily for the past several years and have benefitted from the migration to a cashless society.

Microsoft Corp. (5.5%)
Information Technology

Microsoft Corp. has taken steps of improvement by exiting divisions not aligned with its strengths. Explosive cloud growth and the promise of attractive margins in this segment have obscured weaker results in traditional PC-related business and Mobile. It continues to make good use of recurring revenues by returning capital to shareholders via an attractive dividend and share buybacks.

Toronto-Dominion Bank (5.4%)
Financials

TD Bank's scale and focus on operating expense control should lead to positive operating leverage despite slowing loan growth. TD has been divesting non-core businesses such as proprietary trading and structured products over the years.

The top 10 holdings make up 43.8% of the fund.